Volkswagen taps first American chief in 25 yrs

Scott Keogh takes over on Nov 1 as CEO of Volkswagen Group of America and as head of VW brand for N America

BLOOMBERG
New York, October 10

SCOTT KEOGH, WHO has led Audi to almost nine years of monthly US sales gains, will become the first American in 25 years to lead Volkswagen in his home country.

The 49-year-old native New Yorker takes over on November 1 as chief executive officer of Volkswagen Group of America and as head of the VW brand for North America. The last American in such a role was John Kerr, who had a short tenure in 1993.

Keogh succeeds Hinrich Woebcken, 58, who will remain as a senior executive strategic adviser to the region. Woebcken was charged with repairing VW's brand and reviving sales after its 2015 emissions-test cheating scandal. He was well-liked by dealers, who credited him with giving them unprecedented say over regional operations, such as the decision to name the brand's Tennessee-built, full-size sport utility vehicle the Atlas rather than the Teramont.

Audi of America will be led by Mark Del Rosso, who served as chief operating officer for the unit before running Bentley Motors — another brand in VW's portfolio — in the Americas.

Volkswagen's US sales have risen this year at a time when major automakers are grappling with a slowdown amid rising interest rates and plunging demand for passenger cars. Volkswagen's US deliveries were up 5.5% through October, driven by booming sales of the Atlas and Tiguan SUVs.

Keogh will oversee all VW brand activities in the US, Mexico and Canada, including factories in Tennessee and Mexico. He's also heading the US operations of Audi, Bentley, Bugatti, Lamborghini, and the credit arm of Volkswagen. He will report to global CEO Herbert Diess.

IBM protests Pentagon's cloud contract seen to favour Amazon

BLOOMBERG
Washington, October 10

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS MACHINES said it has filed a protest against the Pentagon's planned winner-take-all cloud computing contract because it restricts the field of competition.

"Throughout the year-long JEDI saga, countless concerns have been raised that this solicitation is aimed at a specific vendor," Sam Gordy, general manager of IBM U.S. Federal wrote in a statement to be posted on a company blog on Wednesday. "At no point have steps been taken to alleviate those concerns."

IBM follows Oracle as the second technology company to challenge the Pentagon's Joint Enterprise Defense Infrastructure contract valued at as much as $10 billion, which is widely seen as favoring Amazon.com Inc., the dominant cloud-services provider. The move increases pressure on the Defense Department to defend its requirements for the contract.

The Jedi project involves moving massive amounts of Defense Department data to a commercially operated cloud system. Companies are due to submit proposals on Friday.

Companies including IBM, Oracle and Microsoft have opposed a winner-take-all award, arguing it will stifle innovation and raise security risks for the Pentagon.

The Defense Department has said that making multiple awards under current acquisition law would be a slow process that "could prevent DoD from rapidly delivering new capabilities and improved effectiveness to the warfighter that enterprise-level cloud computing can enable."

IBM's Gordy went beyond the debate over a single-source contract, arguing that the requirements the Pentagon outlined either mirror a certain vendor's internal processes — he didn't mention Amazon by name — or unnecessarily mandate that certain capabilities be in place by the bid submission date instead of when the work would begin.

Threats from drones steadily escalating: FBI chief

REUTERS
Washington, October 10

FBI DIRECTOR CHRISTOPHER Wray told a US Senate panel on Wednesday that the threat from drones "is steadily escalating" even as Congress gives agencies new tools to address threats.

Wray told the Senate Homeland Security committee that the FBI assesses that "given their retail availability, lack of verified identification requirement to procure, general ease of use, and prior use overseas, (drones) will be used to facilitate an attack in the United States against a vulnerable target, such as a mass gathering."

Wray made his comments days after President Donald Trump signed into law legislation that gives the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the FBI new powers to disable or destroy drones that pose a threat to government facilities.

The FBI had disrupted a plan to use drones to attack the Pentagon and the Capitol building

The new law also requires DHS to conduct several assessments to evaluate emerging threats that drones may pose to state or private critical infrastructure entities and domestic airports.

Wray said the risk has "only increased in light of the publicity associated with the apparent attempted assassination of Venezuelan President Maduro using explosives-laden" drones.

Wray noted the FBI had disrupted a plan in the United States to use drones to attack the Pentagon and the Capitol building. In 2012, Rezwan Ferdaus was sentenced to 17 years in prison for attempting to conduct a terrorist attack.

Ferdaus, who held a degree in physics, obtained multiple jet-powered, remote-controlled model aircraft and planned to fill the aircraft with explosives and crash them into the Pentagon and the Capitol.

Senator Ron Johnson, who chairs the committee, said earlier this year that the number of drone flights over sensitive areas or suspicious activities has jumped from eight incidents in 2013 to an estimated 1,752 incidents in 2016, citing federal statistics.
